GREAT STRIKE
IN RUSSIA
BROKENRevolutionary Committee Unable to Sustain Their FightSocialists Threaten to Duplicate the Scenes of Bloody Riot Witnessed at Moscow

Petersburg, Dec. 25.—The great strike is practically at an end in this city. In their defeat the strikers by thousands are returning to work. The committee is unable to support them. Nearly 1000 leaders are in jail. The committee declare the check is only temporary. They claim to be able to duplicate the scenes at Moscow and their strength growing. A council of ministers has decided to send a brigade of troops, under Orloff, into the Baltic provinces. The Bourse and banks are still closed.

Scenes at Moscow.

Moscow, Dec. 25.—Troops practically control the city, but the fighting continues on the outskirts. The revolutionaries have appealed for help in other cities. Patrols are riding in all directions and shoot without hesitation at all citizens gathered in groups of three or four.

Shooting at Moscow.

Russian soldiery is unable to overcome the dauntless spirit of the Moscow workpeople, and, despite superior arms, enormous advantages in military training and complete supply of all modern appliances, the troops are hardily holding their own. Fighting is now going on in every section of the city, and the dead number hundreds—some reports say thousands—and the end is not yet in sight.

A terrible slaughter of revolutionaries took place during Sunday night and early Monday, when the terrorists attempted to capture the enormous ammunition factories held by the soldiers. The order of General Mitchenko, the Moscow Cossack chieftain, who is now in command of the garrison, the artillery was instructed to mount rapid-fire guns at every window and on the roof of the buildings that they would command all avenues of approach to the storehouses. The order was given that these rapid-firers should not be unmasked until the people actually began breaking into the storehouses. The result was that the proclamations were scattered broadcast, calling upon all citizens to rally round the revolutionary command and compel the soldiers to retire from the city. The result was electrical. Thousands of persons who heretofore remained in their homes flocked to the places of rendezvous, and demanded that they be supplied with arms and ammunition to help their brothers in the "fight for life." Burning Out Loyalists.

The days of the Cossacks are simply intensified in these early years of the 20th century, and it now seems certain that the troops will be unable to quell the rioting.

During the last five hours 1000 buildings have been destroyed by fire. Most of them were structures occupied or owned by loyalists, and the fires had been set by revolutionaries, who kept the firemen from interfering.

Shortly after sunset a detachment of insurgents swarmed down on the railway storehouse, in which the troops were. Cossacks were stationed there to guard the structure, but most of them were shot down or stabbed by the frenzied revolutionaries, who drove the guards away from the scene and carried away everything portable within the building.

Bombs Flung at Troops.

The "murder" of revolutionaries who were ambushed beside the walls of the government ammunition factories early Monday has wrought the anti-monarchical residents up to a pitch so that they don't care what happens to them. Bombs are being used to an extent not heretofore dreamed of. Men carrying explosives of great power in their hands approach ranks of soldiers and throw their missiles right in the faces of the officers and men. These men throw up their arms and die, their bodies being pierced by many shots, but happy in the hope that they have killed some of those responsible for the "murder" of their comrades.

Cossack Atrocities.

Atrocious tales are told of the Cossacks, who drank vodka until drunk, fired down the streets, sometimes charging with lances. The insurgents displayed great stubbornness in holding barricades, even advancing in a mass to the slaughter. At the same time bombs were thrown from the windows of houses near the barricades occupied by the revolutionaries. The artillery was summoned and battered the houses to pieces.

The plan of the insurgents, it is stated, is to hold the outskirts and gradually include the troops in the center of the city. Leaders announce that an army of 30,000 is concentrated at Oreokouff, northeast of Moscow, and will soon be ready to march to the city's assistance. The latest report is that both sides were exhausted at midnight, when firing ceased. The streets were in absolute darkness save for searchlights in the towers of bivouacs behind barricades.

Insurgents Attack Railway.

(Four O'clock Edition.)

London, Dec. 25.—Christmas insurgents attacked the Kazan and Nicholas railroad stations, a lively fusillade following. Three hundred revolutionary militiamen arrived on a special train. A crowd of 2000, including hundreds of trained local militia, joined the forces and seized the adjoining provision store and fired on the troops in the station. The fire was returned warmly, and finally the building was ignited and burned to the ground. The insurgents hold two other stations.

Great Moscow Fire.

(Four O'clock Edition.)

Moscow, Dec. 25.—Hundreds perished in a conflagration, where the Sutil works, with 6000 workmen, was attacked by cavalry and artillery. The artillery ignited the building. The insurgents held the outskirts of the town. Wire entanglements were erected, and a stand made. A big conflict is imminent.

SANTA
DOMINGO
REVOLUTIONU. S. Gunboat Dubuque Has Arrived and Will Preserve Order

Washington, Dec. 25.—The navy department has been notified that the gunboat Dubuque, under Lieutenant-Commander Zechter, has arrived at Puerto Plata, and is expected to preserve order. The war department has been notified by Associated Customs Collector Edwards at Santo Domingo that Charles F. Morales, president, is dissatisfied with the last of support in his cabinet, and has left the capital with a few followers. The intention is said to be to join Jimenez in opposition to Horaciana. Conflict between the factions is imminent, and it will probably take place in the vicinity of San Juan or Puerto Plata. Morales may attempt to establish a new capital and create a new cabinet. The receivership is unaffected so far, and Uncle Sam remains in control of the collection of customs.

Troops will be sent after the chief magistrate. It is known that a fight took place ten miles from Santo Domingo. The supposed government troops attacked General Pimental. The captain of the port of Puerto Plata was killed. The governor of the province defied the central government, and barricaded the town.

Artist Honored by Empress.

New York, Dec. 25.—Herbert Vos, the portrait painter, who has just returned from China, where he went at the summons of the Empress Dowager to paint her portrait, has not only received $100,000 for the masterly painting, but was also made knight commander of the double dragon and a mandarin of the empire of the second class. He was also appointed royal painter of the Chinese court and, as a special mark of favor, was given permission to paint for himself a picture of her majesty, which she had framed for him. While painting the picture of the Empress Dowager she had hung in front of his studio in Peking twelve beautiful lanterns, on one side of which was written the artist's name, on the other "The great painter from the east, who has come to paint the Empress Dowager's portrait." The inscriptions were in Chinese characters. The lanterns were presented to the artist.

Today's Telegrams in Brief.

Louis N. Migargie, publisher of Seen and Heard, one of the best known newspapers in the country, died at Philadelphia.

The Department of Commerce and Labor will ask congress to pass an emergency appropriation for a new lightship to succeed No. "50" at the mouth of the Columbia river.

The civil marriage of Count Jules Von Lier and Princess Anasa Stigliano-Colonna, granddaughter of Mrs. John W. McKay, was performed at the mayor's office at Passy, a suburb of Paris. The church wedding takes place Wednesday.

Cannery Meeting Wednesday.

At 10 o'clock Wednesday of this week there will be a meeting of the committee of seventeen fruit growers generally interested in establishing a new cannery plant at Salem. About 125 shares of stock have been subscribed for by the fruit growers themselves, and other subscriptions are coming in to make it 200, and then the business men of Salem will be asked to take 200 shares of stock, and the business will be ready to start. A great many Salem business men said they would take stock, and it is proposed to make a complete canvass of the city and see how many will stand up for our principal industry.

Short Telegrams.

The state department is informed that Viscount Hugo Aeki will be the first Japanese ambassador. He is a member of the privy council and Order of the Rising Sun. The American ambassador at Tokio may be Leischmann, now en route home from Turkey.

James B. Irfield, right half back of the Minnesota football team, has begun a libel suit against P. F. Collier and son, which published the statement that Irfield obtained inside information of the Beloit game of 1903, and used it to his advantage in betting.

TEDDY

TODAYSecretary Loeb Awaits an Interesting Event at Home

(Four O'clock Edition.)

Washington, Dec. 25.—The President appeared at his office in a riding costume this morning. Loeb didn't appear at all, but is awaiting an interesting incident at his home. Little official business was transacted. The President and his son, Theodore, the latter's chum, took a horseback ride. The family are planning a trip to the country tomorrow. The boys will take rifles and expect to bag some game. A number of callers at the White House today were disappointed, as the President is away.

Five Per Cent of Land Sales.

(Four O'clock Edition.)

Governor Chamberlain today received a check for $28,000, which is Oregon's portion of the fund realized from the sale of land within the state, by the national government. This sum will be distributed among the different counties of the state, in proportion to their area, and is to be used in the construction of bridges. In accordance with this arrangement, the large and thinly populated counties of Eastern Oregon will receive much more in proportion to the number of inhabitants than the more populous counties of the state.

Morales a Prisoner.

(Four O'clock Edition.)

Kingston, Jamaica, Dec. 25.—It is reported that Morales is a prisoner in irons in his capital. It is also said a number of provinces have taken up arms against the government, aiming their attack principally at the Dominican-American arrangement for the collection of customs. General Deschamps, former vice-president of Santo Domingo, leaves here soon to operate against Puerto Plata.

Jimmy Britt Laughs.

San Francisco, Dec. 25.—Willie Britt this morning said: "It's a joke to connect Jimmy's name with the escapades of Mrs. Bob Fitzsimmons."

That stuff is manufactured in a certain newspaper. Britt just wires that he will return to this city in two weeks and will not take a trip to England with moving pictures. He may have a match in San Francisco in the near future." All of Britt's friends laugh at the story of the lightweight's elopement with Julia Gifford.
